

Linking, unlinking, or changing which tree is linked

From a browser

1. On Ancestry®, click the DNA tab and select Your DNA Results Summary
2. In the top-right corner of your DNA homepage, click Settings.
3. Under DNA and family tree linking, click DNA link.
4. Choose to link, unlink, or change your family tree link.
 - To link your DNA results to a family tree: click the dropdown menu and pick an existing tree or select + Start tree to create a new one. If you're starting a new tree, add at least one parent and follow these instructions again, starting from step 1.
 - To unlink a family tree: click the blue X.
 - To change your family tree link: click the dropdown menu and pick a different tree or select + Start tree to create a new one. If you're starting a new tree, add at least one parent and follow these instructions again, starting from step 1.
5. Once you've selected the tree, you'll see one of two things:
 - Linking automatically: We'll try to find you in the tree. If we do and it's right, select Yes. If not, click No to link manually.
 - Linking manually: If you see a field that says "Please tell us who you are in your family tree," type your name and select it when it appears. When your name is selected, choose Link DNA results.

From the app

1. Open the Ancestry app and sign in.
2. In the top-left corner, tap your profile icon (photo or letters).
3. Under Manage DNA test, tap the gear icon.
4. In the opened mobile browser window, under DNA and family tree linking, tap DNA link.
5. Choose to link, unlink, or change your family tree link.
 - To link your DNA results to a family tree: click the dropdown menu and pick an existing tree or select + Start tree to create a new one. If you're starting a new tree, add at least one parent and follow these instructions again, starting from step 1.
